ALFRED E. HALE DIED LATE THURSDAY

County Commissioner
Who Was Serving Third Term To Be Buried On Sunday Afternoon

A. E. Hale, county commissioner of Lorain county, died at his home on the Oberlin road, Russia township, Thursday night, after an illness of several weeks. While it was known that he was in a serious condition the news of his death came as a shock to his family, his associates at the court house and his thousands of friends throughout the county. Mr. Hale had a wonderful array of friends. Probably no man in the county had more, for he was a conscientious, hard working public official, always on the job, and always ready to listen to suggestions made by his constituents.

He was a farmer as well and had just completed a new home, modern in every respect that he had hoped to enjoy in days to come. He served this county as commissioner for nearly three terms and was a candidate for reelection. He served two terms and then retired to his farm for four years, and on becoming a candidate again, was elected easily.

He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, the Elks and the Grange. Mr. Hale is survived by his wife, a daughter, Miss Cassie, and a son, Neil Hale, of the Simpson Motor Co.

Funeral services will be held at the home on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Masonic lodge of Oberlin. Burial at Murray ridge cemetery.

JAMES E. GAGEN, 55 DIED THIS MORNING

James E. Gagen, aged 55 years, died this morning at 9:00 o'clock at his home, 223 Fifth street. He is survived by his wife and seven children, Carl in Cleveland, Ed, James and Theodore in Wadega, Ruth and Dorothy. Mr. Gagen has lived in Elyria for the past twenty years. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

CLEVELAND HURT WHEN HIT BY AUTO

John Doan, Boy Scout Headquarters, Cleveland, while driving east on Cleveland road, Thursday evening, was struck by a machine running east, which had been following a truck and had turned at to pass. In the collision Mr. Doan received a severe laceration above the right eye. He was taken to the hospital, where his wounds were dressed and administered treatment.

Citizens of Elyria paid honor to the veterans, both living and dead yesterday, when they observed Memorial Day and laid a wreath of flowers on the grave of the soldier that has passed on, and turned their thoughts, homage to soldiers that remain. The ranks of the civil war veterans were a little thinner and the step not quite so buoyant as a year ago. The locks of the Spanish War veterans are beginning to grow gray, and the youthful appearance of the boys of the World War has taken on a little more dignity and seriousness than when they came marching home to again take up the every day duties of a civilian life. They met yesterday on a common ground to pay reverence to their fallen comrades and the citizens together with the school children helped them to make it a success.

The soldiers' monument in the city park, and the court house entrance had been handsomely decorated. The great service flag of the American Legion hung gracefully from the balcony of the court house with a blue star on its background for each lad who enlisted, and a gold star for those who died in service.

"Day Should Be Sacred" The services from the court house steps were simple, but nevertheless impressive. Mason Smith, of the Sons of Veterans, acted as master of ceremonies, and a color guard occupied the post of honor near the speaker's stand. Rev. W. L. Burner offered the invocation, and Clayton Hall, manager of the Postal Telegraph office here, recited a stirring war poem, in fine voice and with dramatic effect. Virgil Jasper, commander of the American Legion Post No. 12, then introduced the speaker, Prof. P. D. Sherman, of Oberlin.

The speaker made it plain in his address that he was for preparedness instead of being a pacifist, and said that he expected to say some things not regarded as very flattering to some people at least. But he believed that the time had come to say the right thing for he had profound convictions that the public was becoming too careless and thoughtless in these strenuous days.

"The significance of Memorial Day has changed," he declared, "and there is danger that it will soon become a day of dances, ball playing, horse racing, boxing and auto racing, instead of a day set aside to the memory of the heroes who had fought that the nation might live. It should be a day in which the nation sets aside its business and pleasure and give thought to what it means to be an American citizen."

He said that when the flag passed by some of you men remained covered. That should never happen, uncover every time. This day we should come together and think of but one thing, and that is grateful appreciation of those who laid their all upon the altar of their country." The speaker wondered if Memorial Day really meant anything to the masses of the people. The growing disregard of the things that cannot be disregarded is becoming a real peril. This day is one that we should observe in a common allegiance, he believed. The speaker said he did not believe there ever was a time when there was so much restlessness, discord and strife, politically, religiously and socially as at present. It did not need to be so, but we have given away to a real menace to our country. When President Harding died a wave of sympathy and understanding swept the country. Party differences were forgotten in the common sorrow.

This shows that we can rise above differences that are a real menace to our land. "I am fearful that the present race of boys and girls is in danger of forgetting some of our dearest traditions. There is at work both inside and outside our country sinister influences which if unchecked within our own borders might disrupt this country. If unrest, doubt and suspicion grow upon us it will undermine the very foundations of our country."

SCHOOLBOY COOLLY REENACTS BRUTAL TEACHER SLAYING

Roland McDonald.

Psychologists are studying Roland McDonald, 15-year-old American, Maine, schoolboy, who coolly reenacted the brutal slaying of his teacher, Louise B. Gerlach, 19, who boarded at the farm where he worked. He coolly rehearsed the crime for officers, showing how he slipped away from work with his shotgun, waylaid Miss Gerlach on a lonely road, killed her, hid the body, and then returned whistling cheerfully to the woodpile. Next day, only an hour ahead of the search party that found the grave, he returned and buried the body in a field.

The meeting opened with music by a good orchestra, and the singing of two selections by a chorus of 100 children from the grade schools. This was a feature of the exercises that was also commended on by the speaker. Under the leadership of Miss Jean Williams, music supervisor, the children sang two patriotic selections especially well, and earned the applause that was given them.

A male soloist also sang two selections in good voice, followed by the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech by A. W. Shieles. Senator Willis was introduced by S. A. Williams, G. A. R. Post Commander, as "Ohio's Favorite Son."

In opening his address the Senator said that he never came to an occasion like the present, but memories came to him thick and fast. Memories of the days of Galena, Ohio, where the old log cabin that his parents lived and from which his father went to war. In those days was a typical American home, full of cheer and happiness. He told in a touching manner of the departure of his father for war service, and said as he left the house the Senator's brother not realizing what was happening, called, "Papa, swing the baby." And the father dropped everything and did swing the baby, then went on down the road to join his company. He believed the Civil War was the greatest contest that ever shook this planet, and the men who had fought it out were entitled to all the honor that could be given them. He also paid a tribute to the women who had done as much as the men in winning the war. He called the attention of the young to the old soldier and asked them to honor to them at every occasion. The speaker told numerous incidents that were appropriate to the point he wished to illustrate, and then proceeded to give the set part of his address which was as follows:

Eulogizes G. A. R. "To me it is a solemn duty, as well as a patriotic privilege, to have humble part in this program arranged by public spirited citizens in memory of our heroic dead. At this moment precious memories come trooping thick and fast. Summers kindly sun may shed its mellow light through nature's leafy cathedral where our heroes sleep, yet its rays will not be so bright and comforting and inspiring as the lingering fond remembrance of intimate association and relationship with the veterans who have fought their last battle."

MRS. ALICE WEIBEL DIED THIS MORNING

Mrs. Alice Weibel passed away this morning at 3 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Miss Rose Weibel, Stop 49, on the Cleveland road at Ridgeville Heights.

The deceased was sixty-one years, six months and sixteen days old at the time of her death which followed an illness of three weeks duration. She is survived by her daughter Rose, two sons, three grandchildren and one sister and brother, as well as a host of friends who mourn her loss.

The funeral services will be conducted on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Sudro Funeral Home with Rev. W. L. Burner officiating. Burial will be at Ridgeville cemetery.

CRAP SHOOTERS UNDER ARREST

Last night, or rather early this morning the police were called to the Y. M. C. A. when complaint was made that men were shooting craps in a room on the third floor. They responded and arrested Frank King, James Monroe, Charles Stewart, Leo Henke, Oliver Rolland, James Davis and Leo Stenson. This morning in police court they pleaded not guilty, and were released under $100 bond, and will be tried Monday morning.

FOR FIRST TIME, WOMAN WILL SIT AS GOVERNOR

SANTA FE, N. M., May 31.—A woman will occupy the Governor's official seat and proceed to perform the customary gubernatorial tasks in New Mexico on June 10.

She is Mrs. Edward Chacon, Secretary of State of New Mexico, who will enjoy the distinction of being the first woman in America to direct the destinies of a State from the executive capacity as Governor.

Through the recent death of Jose A. Baca, Lieutenant-Governor of New Mexico, Mrs. Chacon automatically falls in line to accept the duties of the office of Lieutenant-Governor—and on June 10 Governor Hinkle contemplates attending the National Democratic Convention in New York.

In fulfilling the duties of Lieutenant-Governor Mrs. Chacon will necessarily become Governor in the absence of that executive from the State. Her age? Mrs. Chacon when pressed will modestly admit having placed quite a gap between herself and the flapper age. She is regarded as one of the most talented women in the Southwest.

SEN. F. B. WILLIS SAYS G. A. R. REAL SAVERS OF NATION

WELLINGTON, May 31.—The village of Wellington was especially favored Memorial day by the presence of Senator Frank B. Willis, as speaker of the day. The citizens awoke to the importance of the occasion and never did their village look any prettier than it did with its orderly display of the national colors placed an equal distance apart through the business section. The opera house, where the meeting was held, was also handsomely decorated, and caused a word of comment from the eminent speaker, who complimented those who were responsible for the decorations.

The meeting opened with music by a good orchestra, and the singing of two selections by a chorus of 100 children from the grade schools. This was a feature of the exercises that was also commended on by the speaker. Under the leadership of Miss Jean Williams, music supervisor, the children sang two patriotic selections especially well, and earned the applause that was given them.

"It is rather for the living to consecrate themselves afresh to the lofty principles of unadulterated Americanism which they defended with their lives."

Three World Epochs "Three great world epochs are represented in our tributes today. We do not forget the soldiers of the Revolution, the soldiers of the War of 1812 and the Mexican War—they founded, protected and extended the Union—without their heroic devotion there would have been no national ideals to uphold, no republic to save. "But it is the service rendered by the soldiers of the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and the World War of which I would especially speak. The task assigned the veterans of 1861-1865 was as heavy as it was heart-breaking, for we were fighting our own people. "From the days of the Revolution slavery had been an incubator of distrust and hatred. One section thought it right and proposed to extend it; the other deemed it wrong and determined to restrict it. This conflict of ideas and purposes furnished all too ready means for bringing into threatening contest two diametrically opposite theories as to the nature of our constitutional government. Lincoln said 'we will not break the union to destroy slavery and you shall not break the union to save slavery.' Yet ultimately one section became willing to make war rather than let the union live and the other accepted war rather than let the union die. Because of the services of these veterans the union was saved and a race was freed. "The bitterness that lingered after the civil strife was over is fast disappearing; Blue and Gray are now devoted to a common flag and a common country; each respects the valor of the other—both are an inspiring memory to their countrymen. Spanish misgovernment in Cuba and finally the destruction of the Maine aroused anew in the minds of our people a sense of their responsibility for conditions at our very door. Our country did not act precipitately; we were patient and long-suffering. President McKinley and his advisers sought to avoid war. But they and the American people realized that there are some things worse than war—one of them is dishonor. Action was so far delayed that when war came the civilized world realized that we fought no contest of aggression, we sought neither lands nor reparations, we only demanded the right of struggling peoples to make their own way upward, unfettered by Spanish tyranny. "The Spanish-American War made the United States internationally self-conscious. We had long been a world power, but had not realized it. The triumphs of 1898 not only gave the world a new face Republic, enlarged the vision and strengthened the ties of union between different sections of the country, but in addition it made the world understand never before that Uncle Sam had a place at the council table of the nations and that his chair was near the head of the table. Ho Kom Tong has 29 wives, all of them maintained in separate mansions, but they are frugal and painstaking, and less expensive to him than are the one-time wives of American millionaires, he says. Mr. Ho, 55 years old, one of the richest bankers in Hongkong, left New York for London, traveling alone.

SIX KILLED IN MEMORIAL DAY ACCIDENT

Nine Others Were Injured
In Ohio Yesterday—
All Victims Were Riding
In Autos

CLEVELAND, O., May 31.—Six persons are dead and nine others are recovering from their injuries today as the result of Memorial Day traffic accidents throughout the state. The dead: MRS. CLARA BROWN, Grove City, Ohio.

Her infant daughter, ALBERT THORNE, Schenectady, N. Y., killed at Cincinnati. MRS. HAZEL SMITH, Cincinnati.

WILLIAM LANDKROHN, Jewett, Ohio. MRS. T. J. HOGAN, Cleveland. Mrs. Hogan died in a hospital after the auto in which she was riding crashed into an interurban.

Mrs. Brown and her child were killed when their buggy was struck by a B. & O. train at Grove City.

Thorne, cashier of the General Electrical Company, was thrown from his machine when it struck a wagon. His neck was broken. Mrs. Smith was killed when her automobile overturned.

Landkrohn was struck and killed by an automobile at Bellaire. At the request of the authorities, he sat down and printed the words which had been on the envelope which carried the ransom demand. He readily admitted a striking similarity in the formation of some letters but said he knew nothing of the kidnapping, murder and demand for ransom.

Today, he calmly confessed that he had ltered the envelope and seemed amused that he had deceived anyone with his earlier denials.

Burned Clothing A delay of a few more days, he said, might have permitted him and Leob to escape. He had made reservations to sail from New York June 11 for Europe to spend several months. Even if the glasses had been traced to him, he felt confident that no one would as seriously have suspected him as to try to bring him back for questioning. The clothing of the victim, he revealed, was burned in the basement of the Leob home.

The fathers of the two youths, dumfounded when they were aroused from their beds early today to be told of the confessions, refused to credit them. Leopold's millionaire father has been an invalid for years. Leob's father, one of the most prominent businessmen of Chicago, has been ill since his son's arrest.

Loeb Collapses Richardo Loeb, one of the confessed slayers, collapsed today in a restaurant where detectives had taken him and Leopold for a lunch. The detectives and the two youths had gone to the garage, where the death car was said to have been rented and later went to the restaurant. Young Loeb suddenly slumped to the floor unconscious. Efforts to revive him proved futile and officers drove him away in an automobile while Leopold looked on in wide-eyed astonishment.

The disappearance of the Portable typewriter on which the extortion note was written to Jacob Franks was explained today when the two youths said it had Park Lake from an automobile which they had hired. Police were ordered to drag the lake. As the story of the crime unfolded its perpetration and the motive became more and more perplexing to the police, it was learned that the two youths formed and typed the letter before they even knew the identity of their intended victim. It was stamped and sealed in the envelope and addressed after Richard Franks had been slain. The name of Jacob Franks was scribbled on the envelope by Leob and Leopold were returning.

Bishop On Stand "I had been preaching against Darwin all my life; yet I never read him till I was past fifty," he said simply. "And when I did, he said that the world must be divided into two periods, before Darwin, the age of traditional supernaturalism; after Darwin, the age of naturalistic sciences."

The reading of Darwin and his colleagues, however, only intensified his personal problem, the Bishop said, for: "I loved the church, I loved what it stood for, and I wanted to stay in. So, I wrote to all my brother bishops and asked them what could be done for a man who was drifting away from the church as I was. The replies I received, a whole trunk full, contained no more than when the aged Bishop, older than any of his judges, mounted the witness stand and related in his own words the remarkable story of his conversation from an orthodox churchman to an ecclesiastical 'free thinker.'"

Step by step he recounted to an interested jury and an intent roomful of spectators his early struggles in ministry from an orphaned boyhood in Ohio to the headship of the diocese of Arkansas; how doubt first began to assail him because of his inability "to do anything for the colored people" of his diocese; how finally in desperation he turned to Darwin Huxley, Spencer and Haeckel for research and how at last he became convinced that the world is the product of evolution and not of divine creation, and scientific naturalism instead of the supernaturalism of the Bible is responsible for the world's development and growth.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Complete confession that they had kidnapped and slain 13-year-old Robert Franks, son of a neighbor and friend of one of them, was made early today by Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, both 19 and sons of millionaires.

The kidnapping was planned last November in a spirit of adventure, they said, and young Franks just chanced to come along on the day and at the time and place they had elected to rob some one. He was killed almost at once, strangled after being rendered unconscious by a blow on the head with a chisel, and the letter demanding $10,000 ransom sent to his father.

The confessions came at the close of a night of grilling when a chauffeur for the Leopold family casually gave information which completely shattered the carefully concocted alibi of the young suspects.

Leopold wrote the ransom letter to the boy's father. The portable typewriter upon which it was typed off was found in his home. He had admitted owning such a machine, admitted that he very easily could have written the letter but said he was too good a speller to have made the error of spelling kidnapping with two "P's." He made his dental stick, too, until that fateful moment when his father's chauffeur ruled his alibi.

At the request of the authorities, he sat down and printed the words which had been on the envelope which carried the ransom demand. He readily admitted a striking similarity in the formation of some letters but said he knew nothing of the kidnapping, murder and demand for ransom.

"THE GOLDEN RULE IN BUSINESS"

"By coincidence, apparently, two men who have applied the Golden Rule practically in their business, have recently written interestingly describing the actual processes followed. One of these is a Boston retail merchant who has made a remarkable success of his business while sharing control, management and profits with his associated employees. The other is a manufacturing tailor who has achieved a national reputation while making a fortune for himself and a competency for those about him. It is interesting to note the fact that in neither case has there been applied any new or unique method. The theory which has been adopted and made to work is as old as Christianity, and, perhaps, as old as humanity itself. It is the Golden Rule. And as one reads how it operates in those cases where it is actually applied the wonder is that so few are aware of the possibilities when it is adopted in the practical, everyday affairs of life.

"The two instances cited are not isolated. Men and women everywhere are awakening to the realization that capital is not the only thing necessary to success in business. One man applies it in a steel foundry in the middle west and proves that as he shares his profits with those who help him earn them he makes larger profits and sustains fewer losses. Another, in a great department store, conceives the idea that responsibility for the concern's management and operation rests equally with those whose wealth is invested in it and those who, either as constructive agents or as mere time servers, must carry on the work or organization and the details of the business. Still another, in a small tailoring establishment, while engaged in a business which has made some rich and others poor, grasps the fundamental fact that the Golden Rule, even when applied to the commonest industry, will lift it out of sordidness, out of the commonplace, and glorify and ennoble it.

"By actual proof it has been shown that the rule works. There is no doubt about it. The three witnesses named can be questioned by those who have any misgivings. Their testimony is conclusive and satisfying. The only trouble has been the fear, the selfishness, the ignorance, which have prevented its more general application. And as it operates in industry, in business, and in other ways which have been tried, it works, or will work, in all the larger affairs with which humans are concerned. It has been preached and taught throughout the ages, but the world has refused to listen. It is gratifying that occasionally there comes a clear note proclaiming the new-old truth, and with this the convincing testimony that the command, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself,' is not merely the proclamation of some idealistic theory, pleasant to contemplate, but difficult to apply."—Christian Science Monitor.

INTERPRETS AMERICA

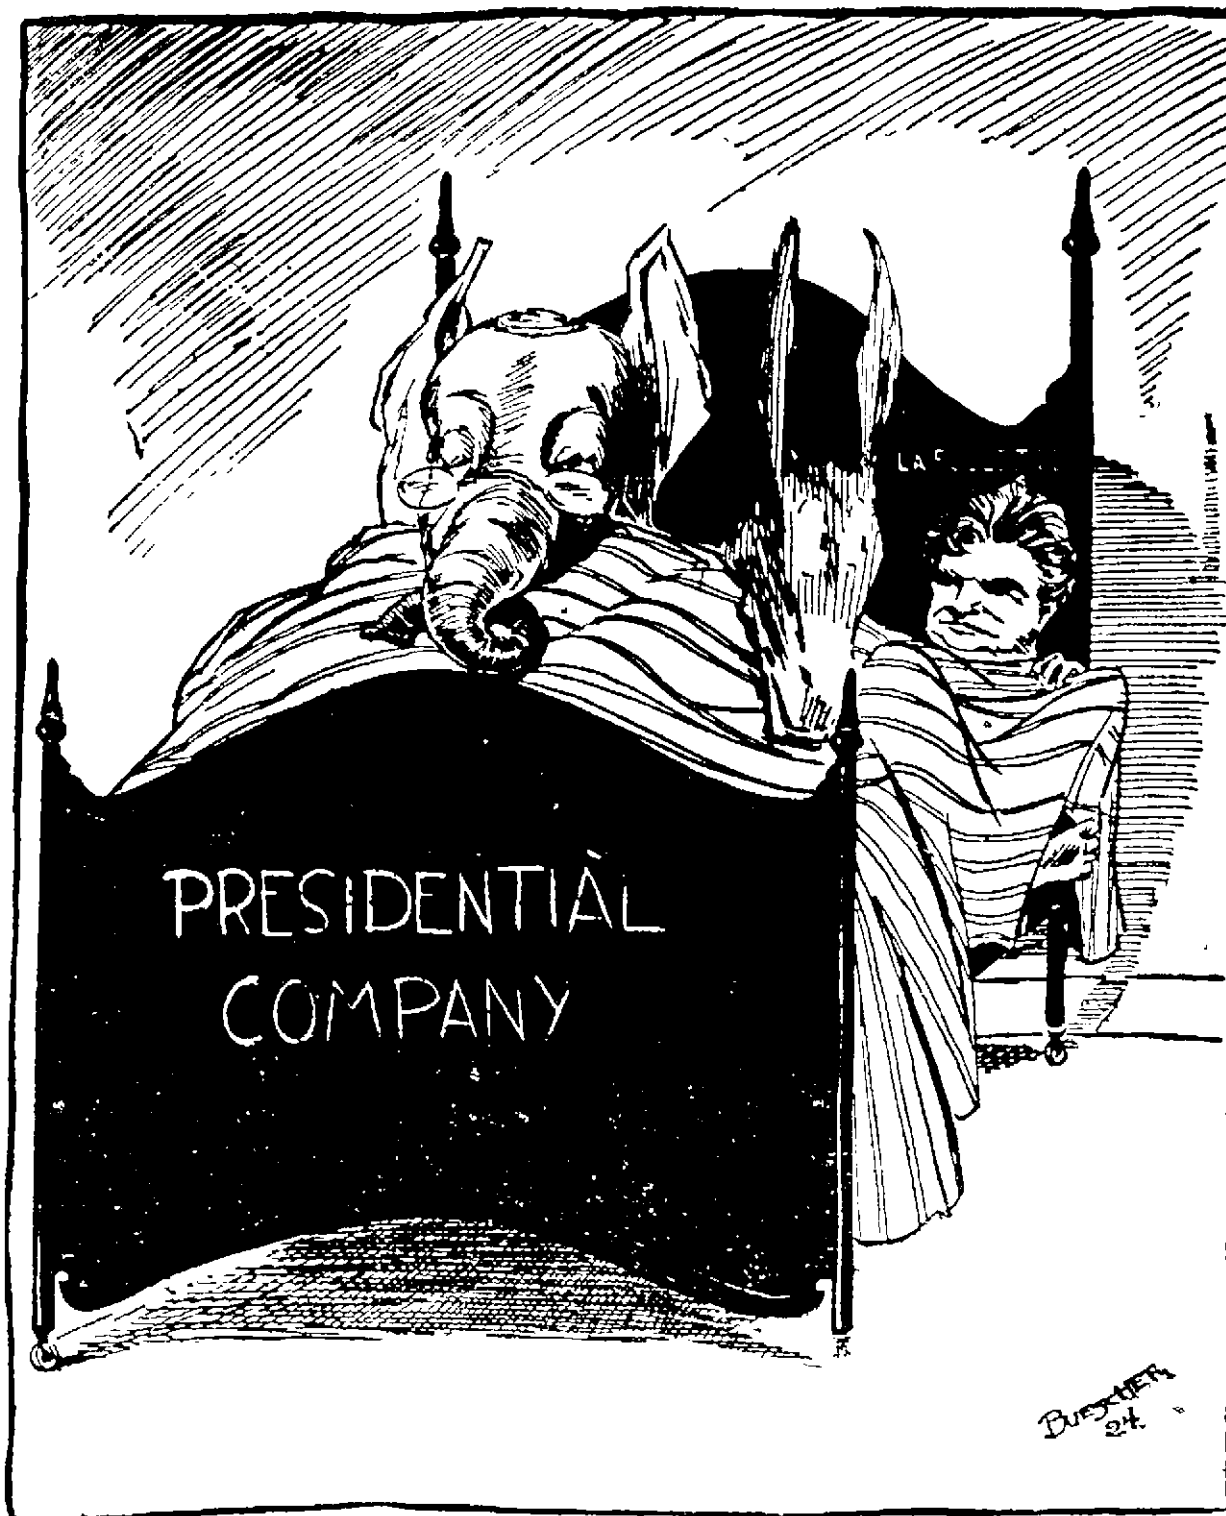

The people of the United States owe heartfelt thanks to ex-Ambassador to Japan, Cyrus E. Woods. Ambassador Woods made a farewell speech in Japan last Friday. A thousand Japanese people heard him. Freed from official obligations he was able to speak what was in his heart. During the time of the earthquake he says, "I was trying to show my friendship and the friendship of the American people for the Japanese people in some way but in the midst of this effort the unfortunate anti-Japanese legislation came up. The Japanese people did not like it, nor did all creditable newspapers in the United States. The anti-Japanese legislation is very unpopular and does not represent the sentiment of the American people."

"The real sentiment of the American people for the people of Japan was shown by the outburst of genuine sympathy which came right from the heart of the American people for the people of Japan at the time of the September earthquake."

Braggadocio and false national pride have brought about a friction between Japan and America which is most unhealthy to say the least. The stupid gesture of Congress was insulting and one can hardly blame the Japanese people for being resentful. Let us hope that they will think along the lines of ex-Ambassador Woods' words, that the real feelings of the people of the United States are represented in our acts during the recent catastrophe and not in the "better than thou" attitude which the tactlessness of Congress has foisted upon us.

The grocer in Omaha, who died the other day resisting his ninth hold-up, had courage. Eight times holdup men entered his store and he resisted them successfully. The dispatch doesn't tell us why, when the hold-up men "got his number" as being a "hard customer," they didn't let him alone and hold-up others. There are many timorous individuals who do not resist to one who does. This man was an exception to the general conduct of human beings under such circumstances, and he deserved to live.

A thoughtful man, a long time ago, said: "Those who wish to appear wise to fools appear fools to wise men." The tendency of nearly all of us is to appear to be wiser than we are. And we nearly always think that we are getting away with it. We never do get away with it in the long run. If you are "dumb" it is going to be discovered soon enough. The more you try to appear wiser than you are the sooner it is discovered. The only way to cure "dumbness" is to work your way out of that state by learning something. Try thinking.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"NEAR EAST IS DANGER ZONE OF WORLD," SAYS "Y" HEAD

"The Near East is the danger zone of the world—more so now than ever, in the judgment of John R. Mott, General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who has just toured the Levant for the purpose of finding out. He says: "Three of the most powerful religions of the world impinge on one another and the rigid, medieval, civilization of Islam clashes with the intensely nationalistic modern civilization—all in the stream of commercial traffic of three continents.

"National and racial prejudices, complicated by the religious friction of Christianity, Judaism and Mohammedanism, are more numerous and more inflamed than ever in the war-torn Moslem world.

"So I say, and I say it with solemnity, the Near East is the danger zone of this world.

"Those who have been there in recent weeks can bring back word that is fairly electric. Everywhere I went in the Levant and in the fringing countries I was made vividly aware that the old things are fast passing away.

Moslems Forswear Mecca
Paris last year than visited Mecca I am within bounds when I put it that way.

There is a great flux of these people and it is there are literally thousands of the keenest Mohammedan students now entering the colleges and universities of Western and Southern Europe, where there were only scores a little more than a decade ago.

There are unmistakable proofs of the break-up of the most powerful system that probably the world has ever known—the social, religious, political system known as Islam.

This is true from the Pillars of Hercules to the Pacific. And I am not so sure but what there has been a long-sighted strategy that is very impressive in the actions of Mustafa Kemal Pasha. He has looked back into the centuries and seen very little good has come through the Mohammedan church and he is looking at the future.

The abolition of the Caliphate dealt a body blow to pan-Islam.

Traditions Break Down

"I maintain that one of the most remarkable revolutions that the world has known in a thousand years in any part of the world is now taking place in the Near East, accompanying the religious breakup. Everywhere tradition is being overthrown.

"The journey from Bagdad to Damascus is now being made in nineteen hours, but when I was over there last time it took two or three weeks in northern Africa. I was amazed to find thousands of miles of splendid highways that put the shame on the automobile roads of most of the States in this country.

"I say the Moslem world has been pulled together and made accessible.

"One hundred are now reading where ten read before the war. Industrialism is crowding medievalism and through it is the conscious of Bolshevism fairly seething in many of these parts of the world."

DR. JOHN J. TIGERT

The rural school of today is the outstanding educational problem of the country, in the opinion of Dr. John J. Tigert, U. S. commissioner of education, expressed recently.

Dr. Tigert, appointed by his position by President Harding, June 1, 1921, is in charge of educational work in Alaska and is the youngest man to hold such a position in the government service.

Young Lamont, Harvard senior, son of the millionaire banker, Thomas Lamont, makes a speech under university auspices and hits snobbery. He attacked some of the college clubs for giving Harvard a reputation for snobbery. "Most of the members of these clubs," he said, "think they are socially elite and superior to others." Coming from the son of a rich man that is good talk and will help a great university in developing the right sort of spirit.

Don't trump hubby's ace in a bridge game. Don't gossip about her neighbors' troubles. There are two rules made by a city clerk who takes about 25,000 marriages a year. He knows something about marriage. Simple rules—but they illustrate the importance of very little things. A simpler rule, to cover all situations might be this: Try to do the right thing at the right time at the right place.

DAY'S MUSIC STORE

The American public is made up of hopeful people which may account for the wonderful sale of Wendell Hall's popular song "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More." "It Looks Like Rain" by the same composer is a close second.

They used to say that piano music couldn't be recorded on records but the many brilliant piano records produced by the Victor Talking Machine Co. prove that this is no longer true. The latest is a fine double by Roy Bargy—"Sunshine Capers" and "Ruf-en-reddy."

Harry Lander has a new number this week "Love Makes the World a Merry Go Round" and "I Like my Old Home Town" two heartening songs in the usual cherry Lander style.

The Little Wooden Whistle Wouldn't Whistle has a variety of whistles from the little willow twig to the full grown steam boat in the fox trot by the Leviathan orchestra with Billy Murray on the chorus.

We have a few of those Victor calendars which list a new record for every day in the year. Ask for one.

"The King is Dead—Long Live the King." We regret exceedingly to announce that Mrs. Leuzler who has been our head sales lady for a year and a half is leaving to enter the hair dressing business. But we are very pleased to announce that Miss Marian Vogtley has consented to take her place behind our record counter.

Here is a real bargain—A flat top Victrola console under just a few months and in perfect condition. Value now $150. Special for a quick sale only $115.

Just a word about U. S. Purple stamps—We give these for cash purchases on everything except Victor Records and needles. By an agreement with the Victor Co. we are not allowed to give anything away with, or cut the price upon Victor Records.

OHIO EXPECTED TO HAVE THE FIRST
"SKYSCRAPER" CAPITOL BUILDING

How the Ohio capitol would look with the proposed tower added. The lower flat structure constitutes the present capitol building.

A skyscraper capitol building, rearing itself gracefully into the clouds, is expected to be approved by the Ohio legislature this fall. A special committee of legislators approved an architect's proposal for increasing the office space in the capitol at Columbus by constructing a huge tower on the present low, flat structure. The cost of the improvement would be $1,000,000, it is estimated. It would be the first skyscraper capitol.

Marguerite McDonald Bride of Rodney Rockwood

The wedding of Miss Marguerite McDonald, daughter of the late Mrs. L. P. McDonald of York City, and Rodney G. Rockwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Rockwood of 123 St. Clair street, this city, at high noon at the Cathedral, Cleveland, on Thursday was one of the interesting social affairs of the month. The father of the bride, the late L. P. McDonald, D. D., of the board of the New York City Mission of the Episcopal church officiated, assisted by the bride's brother, the Rev. J. A. McDonald, Curate at the Chapel of Immaculation, New York City, and the Very Rev. Francis S. White, D. D., Dean of the Cathedral. Edwin Arthur Craft presided at the organ.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white figured chiffon and carried an arm bouquet of marguerites, purple bachelor buttons, lilacs-of-the-valley and maiden-hair ferns and was attended by Miss Eugenie De Woyne attired in blue, who carried roses and bachelor buttons.

Walter Kelsey of this city, served the groom as best man.

On the left the coat shown is green with a collar and sleeve bandings of cocoa squirrel and a wide band of embroidery near the hem. Grey luella cloth makes the one in the center with a dyed squirrel trimming. "Penny," a new reddish brown shade, is used for the coat on the right. Fur bandings of baby fox and carriage tucks combined with gold stitching form the trimming.

25 Are Graduated From The Lorain County Normal School

Amid surroundings made beautiful with palms and baskets of coral-colored sweet peas, the members of the graduating class of 1924 of the Lorain County Normal School received their diplomas from the Superintendent of County Schools, E. C. Seale, at the commencement exercises held in the High School Auditorium, Thursday evening.

The graduating class of '24, who were beautifully gowned in dresses of different colors, presented a pleasing color scheme as they were seated on the platform to receive their diplomas. For some seventy-five former graduates of the Normal School received their diplomas at this time. Due to illness one member of the class, Miss Dorothy Schoenherr, was unable to be present.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. W. L. Burner and the excellent address of the evening was given by the Rev. William Muir Auld.

Following the benediction, pronounced by the Rev. W. L. Burner, an informal reception and dance were held by the Normal Alumni and friends in the High School Cafeteria. Refreshments were served.

BILLY WHISKERS

Lieutenant Strongheart had started out after the German plans and Billy was following him. He went straight out into No-Man's-Land. When there, he lay down flat on his stomach and began to wriggle forward like a snake. It was slow and tedious with all his equipment strapped to him, and his rifle in his hand. But this land had to be crossed in this way, for if he raised his head above the long grass, a sniper would shoot it off. Then too there was always the danger of meeting a German spy coming to the Allies' line in just this same fashion.

"I can give him quite a start and then beat him, for I can run across and, being only a goat, they won't be as likely to shoot me. But I do wish my coat was black instead of white. It would hide me so much more. I know what I'll do. I'll roll in that black mud over there and get as dirty as I can. Then I'll let it dry on me, which will dull my color considerably. When Billy came back, he was the dirtiest, blackest thing you ever saw. He saw the grass waving about the spot he thought his master had reached, and as he looked, he saw a leg fly up in the air, then an arm, and immediately he knew his master had met a German in the grass. Without a second thought Billy bounded forward and arrived on the scene just in time to catch the unsuspecting German in the stomach as he rose to his feet to try to run his bayonet through Billy's master. With a groan, he rolled over dead, and Billy's master, crawling faster than before, soon reached the opposite side of No-Man's Land and disappeared in a clump of trees. Though Billy was close behind him, he could not see where his master went. Presently he heard voices and, dropping to the ground where he stood behind a bush, he heard one voice say, "I was sure I saw the figure of a man slip into this clump of trees. And if I did, it must be a spy. We must find him quickly."

THEATRES

Grand—Today only. Return engagement of "The West Bound Limited" one of the stirring pictures on the screen, and one that was very popular to theatre patrons at its previous showing. Also a new comedy and feature picture. Rivoli—Last showing of "The Virginian," a peppy and bright picture of the west. Sunday, "Bright Lights of Broadway," a story of how woman is startling the world and battering down the walls of ancient prejudice. The girl in this story is in love with music and dreams of a stage career, and she also dreams of love. It forms the basis for a great picture. Dreamland—Ray Stewart in "Pure Grit," a Western story as good as they make. There is plenty of dramatic excitement in this picture. Also a fine comedy and feature picture.

OVERLAND BLUE BIRD LOWEST PRICED AUTO WITH BALLOON TIRES

With public interest in balloon cars at its height, the Overland Blue Bird, the lowest priced motor car with genuine balloon tires furnished as standard equipment.

Those who have seen the car at its preliminary showings at the factory agree that the Blue Bird is the most striking design that has ever been produced by this organization.

The combination of a long, roomy body done in rich Peacock Blue, set off by black fenders and running gear, smartened by nickel-plated radiator, windshield stanchions and side door handles, with upholstery of a bluish shade to match the body, and a top of similar hue, creates an appearance of spirit and sparkle that is entirely in keeping with its happy choice of trade name.

JACKIE COOGAN HAS "SPECIAL" BUICK

Jackie Coogan's dad, at the behest of his clever little son, has traded in Jackie's 1924 Buick sedan for a Country Club Special. This swaggar car which is specially constructed for the comfort and convenience of golfers is not used by Jackie for anything pertaining to the links. He says the special compartment in the rear, primarily intended for golf clubs and equipment, is just "dandy" for his make-up box and other appurtenances used on "location."

In America there are now about 200 women ordained to the ministry.

Girls usually reach their full height at about sixteen, and their full weight at twenty.

89-YEAR OLD VETERAN PAINTS EARL COOPER'S SPECIAL RACING AUTO

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31.—Some weeks ago Earl Cooper and his mechanic, Earl Dutton, were tuning up the Studebaker Special out in Los Angeles, after winning a race on the west coast. They noticed a snow-haired veteran who was intensely interested.

He used to keep his eyes focused on the tiny Studebaker. The car seemed to have some strange fascination for him. Both Dutton and Cooper noticed it. So one day Cooper said to him:

"Mister, you seem to admire that midgey race gondola. Does it look good to you?"

He laughed, and I swear there were tears in his eyes. He put his hand affectionately on the radiator, and said:

"Son, that car is just like a grandson o' mine. Just like my own flesh and blood. Why! When I was a youth, I was helpin' to make Studebakers myself."

"Yes, I was hired by Clem and J. M. Studebaker, back in South Bend nearly 70 years ago, to paint the carriages they made. We took a blessed lot of pride in fixin' up those carriages. And now—here's this Studebaker racer. Some different from the old carriages, but still a Studebaker."

The aged man was N. M. Henderson, 89 years old, one of Los Angeles' oldest citizens. When he was 19 years old he was painting Studebaker wagons and carriages. And so Earl Cooper, deciding to repaint his car, delighted him by suggesting that he paint it if he desired.

The fashion of woman riding horseback astride is said to be going out, and the side-saddle is slowly returning to favor.

NEW DE LUXE HUDSON SEDAN IS ON EXHIBIT

A new de luxe sedan—which is easily one of the handsomest and most luxurious which Hudson has produced—has arrived in the city and is on display at the showroom of the H. M. Andrews & Sons sales room.

The new Hudson, while similar to previous cars of the same type, which Hudson has developed, is generally more luxurious and richly equipped. Its exterior appearance too has been bettered by a number of tasteful and well-thought out refinements.

The bodies are made for Hudson by Biddle & Smart, the famous builders of Amesbury, Mass. Hand-work predominates throughout the whole job. Biddle & Smart are under contract to Hudson to utilize their complete facilities for this one fine carriage. Upholstery is of a fine, rich mohair plush—said by the makers to be the best material obtainable. The interior fittings and little conveniences are complete in every detail.

Velie Captures Economy Event

A Velie touring car won the world famous economy run of the Royal Automobile Club of Queensland, Australia, according to a cablegram just received at the factory in this country.

This car averaged 35.5 miles to the imperial gallon of gasoline and set a record for cars in its class.

The annual economy of the Queensland, Australia club is run each year and attracts thousands of spectators in much the same way that the Indianapolis race on Memorial Day in this country, does. Each year Australian dealers enter foreign cars in class competition for prizes but instead of being a speed contest it is an economy run, which is much more important to people of that country than speed.

There were more than a dozen entries in the Velie class and the majority of these entries were American cars. The course to be driven over extended in a triangular shape approximately 100 miles in length. Hills, valleys and bad roads were encountered on this test, according to reports received in this country.

The Velie is sold in Ellyria by the Young Motor Sales Co.

CLAIMS AUTO HELPS SPREAD POPULATION

By GEORGE H. HANNUM
President & General Manager,
Oakland Motor Car Co.

The great concentration of population in the larger cities of the United States, which has been one of the striking developments of the last quarter of a century, is slowly spreading out to the suburban districts.

To the motor car can be attributed the development of the suburb and the decentralizing or drawing of the large cities into greater areas.

The suburb affords cheaper land on which to build and consequently larger lots for homes. The air has none of the smoke and grime that are a part of most industrial cities. The surroundings are ideal for bringing up children, and the motor car eliminates distance.

DIAMOND DRILLS AID LIFE OF NASH MOTORS

The diamond, which for centuries has lolled about on the lap of luxury, adorning delicate settings of rare platinum and gold, has been put to a practical and useful occupation by the manufacturer of automobiles. The precious gem, devoid of glittering setting and attitude in overalls, so to speak, is now working shoulder to shoulder in the factory of The Nash Motors Company with its less romantic brethren of the steel and copper branches of the mineral family.

In fact the average car owner, marveling at the smoothness of his motor is not aware, perhaps, of the important contribution made by the diamond in attaining this smoothness. $75,000 worth of these precious gems are carried on hand by Nash Motors as part of its regular factory tool equipment.

For some years past manufacturers have used diamonds, because of their hardness, to resurface emery wheels but in the Nash factory the diamond also adorns the "boring end" of the boring car in a machine which bores the bearings in Nash connecting rods. So efficient is the diamond in this important work that a fit, described by production men as being one-thousandth of an inch perfect, is attained for the wrist pin.

That, of course, means longer life for the motor, the elimination of any possibility of a wrist pin knock or slap, and a motor that is smoother in operation.

Opportunity rarely shows up but temptation has a regular route. Envy and malice tell you you quicken plowin'.

Ford Sales Show Tremendous Gain

DETROIT, Mich., May 31.—Retail sales of Ford cars and trucks in the United States rose to 211,410 during April, a substantial increase over the record breaking deliveries of March, the Ford Motor Company announced here today.

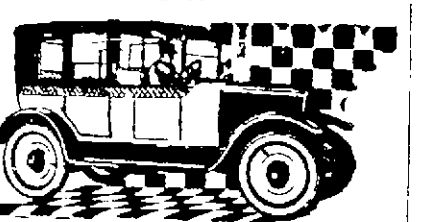

At the same time, it was stated that sales of Fordson tractors, which have been steadily increasing since the first of the year, exceeded 12,000 in April.

Further, in the high-priced car field, sales of Lincoln cars, which are produced by a division of the Ford Motor Company, reached a new monthly record with a total of 762 retail deliveries. During the first four months of the present year, Lincoln Sales showed an increase of approximately 55 per cent over the same period a year ago, the company says.

A review of the sales records shows that for two years retail deliveries of Ford cars and trucks in the United States have exceeded 100,000 a month, the company says while for nine of the months during the past year sales were well over the 150,000 mark, and the big demand during March and April this year carried sales for each of those months considerably over 200,000.

Despite late spring weather in many sections, the demand for Fordson tractors for agricultural use continues to grow, while a noticeable increase in the percentage of Fordsons going into industrial use is accepted as reflecting generally prosperous conditions.

OLDSMOBILE BELIEVE CAB DEMAND GROWING

Efficient efforts of capable business executives to reduce the cost of sales and distribution are resulting in an increased demand for the 2 passenger type of closed car popularly known as the 'cab,' according to Guy H. Peasley, sales manager of the Oldsmobile Works.

This trend is sure to play an important part in automobile sales this year, he asserts.

"The cost of distribution of merchandise from the producer to the retailer and consumer is one of the veracious items little understood by the general public, yet one that materially concerns ultimate prices," said Mr. Peasley. "One of the larger divisions of this distributing cost is selling expense. Manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers must use salesmen to bring their product to the attention of the retailers, and this costs money."

"Use of automobiles by salesmen is no new thing. Several years ago, particularly during the boom years of 1919 and 1920, many firms indiscriminately bought cars for their salesmen. A shift in business conditions showed that they had bought not wisely but too well, with the result that many discarded the use of cars.

HUPMOBILE COMPANY HAD SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Net profits of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, including its subsidiaries, for the year ending Dec. 31, 1923, after providing for federal income taxes, were $2,357,788.50, equal after payment of dividends on the since retired preferred stock of $4.50 per share on 571,131 shares of $10 par value common stock outstanding during 1923. This compares with net profits of $3,753,983.46 for 1922. Sales were $38,013,014.85, the gross profits of $3,266,587.38. The annual statement, issued recently by Charles D. Hastings, president and general manager, shows total assets of $22,359,463, compared with $19,079,178 at the close of 1922. At the end of the corporation carried forward the largest surplus in its history—$9,393,939.09—a reserve strength that probably is equalled by any other automobile company in proportion to its assets and liabilities. So strong is Hupp financially that its surplus is larger than all its stock outstanding. This stock, including the 342,678 additional shares common sold in accordance with the directors' action of December 1, 1923, to retire all the preferred stock, has a par value of $9,000. Surplus was increased $9,393,939.09 during the year.

CHEVROLET AVERAGES 32 MILES A GALLON

Chevrolet stock went soaring in Marshall, Texas, when the Wood Chevrolet Company of that city, started a one-hundred-hour non-stop run, with a standard stock Chevrolet Superior Touring Car. The populace of the community were all watching with interest. The Chevrolet was driven by W. E. Miller, vice president and general manager of the company.

The run was completed after the car had been driven 2,346 miles, making an average speed of 23.46 miles per hour. The Pyramid Oil and Gas Company, who furnished the oil and gasoline for the run, reported that the car had consumed 72 quarts of gasoline and four quarts of oil. This brought the mileage record to an average of 32 and two-thirds miles to the gallon of gasoline. No water was put into the radiator after the test was started.

SPORTS DONE BY BROWN

The department of justice need not worry about the Reds as far as the baseball part of them is concerned. Ernest Osborne, six-foot-four pitcher of the Cubs and Dodgers, will take care of them.

When Osborne was a member of the Chicago crew he simply walked out on the field and threw down his glove when asked to pitch against the Cincinnati team. Whereupon Garry Herrmann's boys would admit defeat and simply go through the motions of nine innings. Osborne won a total of seven out of eight games from the Ohioans.

Now, with the Brooklyn crew, Osborne seems as effective as ever against Jack Hendrick's sluggers. Osborne, despite his ability to tame the Reds, was passed out at the waiver price by the Cubs, mainly because of his wildness which hindered his work against the six other clubs. Under Robbie and his brain-stuff seem to have corrected that fault. This by altering his pitching style.

As a Cub Osborne relied mainly on the overhead delivery. Robbie has him shooting them in with a sidearm motion. In a recent game against the Reds, which Osborne won of course, he failed to issue a single pass and fanned four of the Ohio river lads.

The progress of some big league ball players is hindered by their lack of "pep" or fire. They take things too easily. But Jack Bentley, pinch hitter extraordinary, first baseman and pitcher with the Giants, finds his effectiveness in the box at least, weakened by the other extreme.

Bentley, McGraw and his aides have decided, it is so determined to salt a game away when he goes to the mound that he puts everything he has on the ball from the very first. This effort prevents him at times from going the route after getting away to a brilliant start. Now Bentley is being urged to conserve his energy and "stuff" for the pinches.

"There are eight other men on the field who are supposed to help you win the game," Jennings has told Bentley repeatedly. But it's hard for the enthusiastic Jack to travel under wraps.

Eddie Collins is at last a big league manager, if only temporarily. He will serve until Johnny Evers is sufficiently recovered from his appendicitis operation to resume active leadership.

Collins' appointment brings out the fact that only two members of Connie's great White Elephant machine have become big league bosses. Jack Coombs is the other member.

Collins was named manager of the Phillies after Pat Moran departed. Moran had given the Sleepy Town a pennant in 1915 and had managed the team for three campaigns after that. In December, 1918, he was eased out. Coombs succeeded him but failed, with the material aid given him, to do anything with the outfit. He lasted but a short time. Some of the fans will ask, "How about Harry Davis?" Davis broke into the managerial game long after his playing days were over. He played with the Giants back in 1896 and was out of active duty when Mack's famous machine was hogging the baseball limelight.

Davis took over the reins in Cleveland after George Stovall's term. Harry's work wasn't satisfactory. He seemed to lack the pep and initiative needed.

NOW RUMOR SAYS
CINCI REDS WANT
YOUNG BILL TERRY

Bill Terry.

Bill Terry, the youngster who slammed the ball in such decisive fashion and played first base so acceptably for the Giants while long George Kelly was off the job, is wanted now by the Cincinnati Reds, according to rumors from New York. Owner Garry Herrmann would pay $50,000 for Terry, it is said. Which indicates that once more the Reds may figure that Jake Daubert's about done.

MOULTON CANDIES PLAY LORAIN SUN.; DEFEAT SANDUSKY

By R. L. SCHAFER
Before an unusually large crowd at Cascade Park yesterday the Moulton Candies took the Mack Stories of Sandusky into camp by a five to one score. The game yesterday was a pitchers' duel from start to finish with Schroeder, local slasher, having the edge on Waterfield of the Stogies. Schroeder had the edge because he could bear down tight when men were on the base and all that was needed was a hit to bring them in but the hits were not to be had.

Waterfield Pitches Good.
Waterfield, though beaten, pitched as fine a game as could be asked, and but for a couple of his teammates' slips he would have held the locals to less runs and hits in the first three men to face him were set down in order. The second inning was his worst of all—the game Bayless rolled to Otto for an out, Kaiser scratched a single to short, went to second on a passed ball, and took third while Otto was throwing out Schweda at first. Mosney biffed a single to center, scoring Kaiser. Minch's sled sharply to right, Mosney going to third and scoring when right field got away from him. Minch also going to second. Schroeder was hit by a pitched ball. Jacobs smashed a single over second. Minch scoring and Schroeder pulling up at third. Waterfield interrupted the throw from center field and threw to second to get Jacobs. Roth rushed up the throw. Jacobs being safe at second and Schroeder scoring from third. The four hits and two errors in this frame netted the Candies four runs.

Scattered down in the third inning and did not allow the locals another hit until the ninth inning. So effectively did he pitch that only three men in each of the third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings faced him. In the sixth he retired the side on strike outs. In the eighth with one out Jacobs drove a single right and was sentanced to second by Ingwer. Traver, who replaced Wohlever, in left, slashed a single to left. Jacobs scoring. Roth uncorked a base hit to right but Traver was out at third by a perfect throw from the Sandusky right fielder.

Schroeder Shows Form.
Schroeder was at his best yesterday, allowing the visitors only seven safe swats through which were of the scratch variety. His curves were working fine and his fast ball was working better. He was continually throwing his fast ball past the Stogie hitters with the result that fourteen were retired via the strike out route. He was especially effective when men on bases and kept the hits well scattered, one coming in third, one in the fourth, fifth, sixth, eighth, and two in the ninth. He blanked the scoreless innings. In this frame Sandusky scored their lone run on singles by Keith and Tracey. Minch caught Schroeder's slants in wonderful style having thirteen put outs to his credit and three assists. Schroeder besides pitching a good game belted in fine shape having four assists to his credit. Doyle, third sacker for the Stogies, played a wonderful game with two put outs and five assists. The real fielding star was Will, Sandusky first sacker, who repeatedly went into the dirt for low throws. Tracey started at bat for the visitors with two hits in three times up while Jacobs, for the locals, collected two out of four. The locals hit yesterday when hits meant runs with the result that only two men were left on base.

Tomorrow afternoon at two-thirty the Candies will take on the Lorain Grays, the St. Nicholas club. This will be a good chance for fans to see how Elyria and Lorain teams stack up this season.
